Hudson County's Victory.

If the Dolbyites eject their Assembly ticket this fall they will assist in movement to take the honorable and distinguished position of United States Senator away from Essex county and give it | sequence. This is not confined to ownto Hudson county.

Previous and boastful declarations of a determination to do such a thing does not appear to be good politics. It is

The people of Resex county have Boy. Dr. Josee L. Huribut, paster greed to feel and no doubt do feel a just and proper pride in the fact that one of the state's representatives in the United State. Vesper service Epworth League States Scate is a officer of Resex of P. M. Tuesday evening's classes county and it is not likely that Besex county people will fold outhweisstfoally in a movement to thrust the honor of the Benetorship out of the county. To be consistent with their declaration of principles the Colbrites should wait until the people of Essex county have given expression of their sentiment on the Senatorial question before they declared in favor of transferring the honor to Hudson county.

Is it because Hudson county has produced a pair of aggressive equal tax agitators that it is to be rewarded with the bestowal of the United States Senatorship upon one of its citizens.

Is not such a proposition in the nature of a parely political reward for purely political services? Is such a course consistent with the lofty ideals of Colbyism?

The reports about the conference at which the proposition to transfer the United States Senstorship from Essex to Hudson county was agreed upon, it is Brown, D.D., pastor. Sunday morning said, some of those present demurred, worship at 10.45; Sunday-school, 12 M.; but subsequently yielded and gave unwilling assent. In other words they were whipped into line and afforded an illustration of the fact that the Colby mations just like all other political ma- policy would dictate that the change chines. It believes in rewarding political service with political office and it makes every minor wheel in the machine subservient to the master wheel.

> This action of the Colbyites in regard to Essex county and the United States Senatorship is putting Colbyism in a new light before the public. It is becoming more and more apparent that while gadical Colbyltes are posing and shouting a gilt-edge declaration of principles behind it all is the old machine method of rewarding political zeal with political office, and also the established machine principle of absolute surrender to the will of the boss.

> If the boss of the Colby machine in Essex county can force the people of this county into electing eleven Assemblymen who are pledged to before hand to deprive Essex county of the United States Senatorship and confer it upon Hudson sounty (because a son of that county has politically earned it), i will be conceded that the new machine is possessed of marvellous political Musicale at Monomonock. Shepherd Garretson of Dodd street, this town, gave a song recital at the Mondmonock Inn, Caldwell, Wednesday York will speak on "Paychie Research evening July 25. He was assisted by J. Nelson Bush of Montelair as accompanist, and the Bush Children's String Quartette. The Bush children are making great strides up the ladder of artistic success, and they play with good tone, quality, and finely balanced parts. Mr. Garretson has a very pleasing tenor voice, because he can sing both lyris and robust style. He rendered eleven different humbers, which were quite varied in style of composition. In some of the songs he took his upper A and B fist notes, with full swinging chest, voice, and then again he would render them with the most delightful, sweet, soft tones, which seemed to float out into space and melt sway. His tone production is a smooth flowing legato, with fine breath control, and his interpretation is unusually good and correct. His singing is delightful to listen to, because of his remarkably distinct enunciation. Glenwood Avenue, near Centre. Sun-

Newark Tax Increases.

The Tax Commissioners have raised the valuations throughout the city, and especially on business property, and a storm of protest has been raised in coners, for since the increases began to be felt severely, tenants have found their rents made greater, in proportion to the taxes, so the burden has been distributed throughout the community, and the complaint comes from all quarters.

The Tax Commissioners are, of course. required to enforce the laws, and the assessment of property should be at the true value. Whether they are not excooding "true value" in many cases in a fair question. The courts have not been altogether successful in defining the meaning of true value, but in a general way it is said to be that which a property would yield when disposed of by a willing seller. The Tax Commission is bound to take into consideration the prices of property sold in the vicinity in making up its estimate, but that should not be its only guide. The sale by the Public Service Company of Park place property to the Pennsylvania Bailroad was, for instance, part of a deal involving other interests. Immediately upon that transaction one or two other purchases were made in the vicinity on speculation, but to fix values upon other property by these transactions would be manifestly unjust. They are important elements to be considered, but the fact that the properties pay less than three per cent. upon the value as indicated by the sales, and when taxes, repairs and insurance are deducted yield nothing, should also

The commissioners seem to us to be hastening the increase somewhat unreasonably. To jump the valuation of a property one hundred per cent, may chine is in its practically working opera- still leave it below true value, but good should be made gradually. Local government should be thorough, careful, styled by himself "Guide and Conjust, but it should also seek to be hon- triver." He is sage, poet, humorist and estly popular. To make it offensive even in a good cause is ever a mistake.

A sense of irritation on account of the increases is that they seem a part of a general campaign made throughout the State to raise valuations. That railroads were determined to have other valuations increased when they found their own property was to pay local rates is a matter of common belief. If the general valuations in Newark are made high enough to reduce the rate considerably, the railroads will escape much of the increased burden which they fought so hard to evade. They do not suffer in the general increase of assessments .-Newark Sunday Call.

Colonel Barbour says "And I think that I may reasonably entertain some hopes in that direction. believe that I will have the support of the legislative delegation from Sixth Congressional district to start with. This would give me six votes from Passaic, five in the House and one in the Senate, and the two members and one Senator from Bergen. I hope also to have some backing from Monmonth, in which county I have taken up my permanent residence, and my friends assure me of some positive and considerable reversionary strength in several other counties. The Essex Trades Council has adopted resolutions urging the mayors and chiefs of police of the municipalities of Essex county to enforce the Sunday closing laws against all places of business. The Olgarmakers' Union started the move ment, on the ground that the closing of saloons on Sunday materially reduced their sales. They hope that a general enforcement of the law will result in the bishops' law will follow. The Essex Trades Council assert that if the mayors and chiefs of police do not enferce the law, they will do so by securing evidence against violators and prosecuting them.

Library Notes.

"Huntingdon, Jr.," by Edward Clay Root, should be widely read in Bloom. dels, for its author was born in this good old town in 1877, at which time his father was our esteemed superintendent of schools. The tale is a fight against bossism and corruption in politics; the style is vigorous, clear cut, and powerful, and we congratulate Mr. Root not only for his present schievements, but for the promise which it holds of even

"Bob and the Guides" also takes us to the woods, while for practical use in camping we turn to "Camp Kits and Camp Life." The children are not left out in this line of reading, for among new juveniles we find the story of "Wild West and Camp Fire Chate" and "Camp Mates," this latter by the ever popular Kirk Munroe.
